SUPPLEMENT

1. 1. Dr. Julius Deutsch is in Prague attending the conference of the Social Democratic Parties of Central and Eastern Europe.
2. The most important decisions which the conference has made thus far are the following:
 - a. No attempt will be made to reestablish the prewar Social Democratic International. All Social Democratic Parties are to maintain only the closest friendly relationship.
 - b. From now on the principal stress will be laid upon the fact that Social Democratic Parties in Central and Eastern Europe strive for improvement of economic relations among their countries, and attempt to achieve a financial base for economic cooperation and conclude multilateral agreements among their countries.
 - c. The conference entrusted the Czechoslovak Party with the implementation of these proposals.
3. At the beginning of the conference relations among the delegations were cool. The second day the atmosphere became warmer, and from then on excellent relations prevailed, especially among the Austrians and the Czechs.
4. Dr. Julius Deutsch removed the ties of personal friendship with Fierlinger but thinks that Laufer is a much stronger man.
5. Deutsch believes that delegates from Romania, Bulgaria, and Poland where cooperation between Social Democrats and Communists is close, most likely because of fear, got a "shot in the arm" and will try to become more independent.
